BELLE GLADE—PAHOKEE, FL.

DON'T SCRATCH BABY is the word that's out at the South Bay Fire Station this week after Fire Chief James Webber brought in a brand new engine bought by the city last week to replace the former engine which was wrecked three weeks ago. Delivering the keys to Webber, while Firefighter Jimmy Piper watches, is Gary Abbe, the Food Machinery Corporation representative who sold the engine to the city.

Altman asks investigation Commissioner seals city manager's files

By DEAN JONES

BELLE GLADE—The files of former City Manager Robert Sanders, ordered locked by the city commission Monday night, will be searched, beginning this week, for inconsistencies in his recommendations over the past year which could have influenced commission decisions.

The commission, on a motion by Commissioner Tom Altman, ordered the files locked during the Monday night commission meeting and directed Acting City Manager Frank Anderson and City Clerk June Boglioli to make the search.

Altman made the motion after saying four cases that have recently come to his attention indicate to him the commissioner's credibility in its decision making process has been impaired because of wrong information on which decisions were based.

Altman's motion received a quick second from Commissioner Dorothy Walker and a unanimous approval of the other commissioners. There was no further discussion during the commission meeting after Altman had made his presentation.

Sanders resigned his position with the city on Sept. 8 to accept the corresponding position with the City of Key West. In a Tuesday morning telephone interview, Sanders said he had been notified by no fewer than six telephone calls about the situation as of early that morning.

Sanders said he had no idea what lay behind the charges but that he could refute each of them.

Specifically, Altman charged:

of fact at the end of the year. Disregarding those, though, we were above but we weren't grossly overspent. That's not grossly overspending on anything."

- Overspending on Airport Park to the point recreational reserve funds, which were supposed to have been used for the construction, were completely depleted and $50,000 more was drawn from general funds without the commissioners being made aware of it.

Sanders said he couldn't have overspent on the park construction because no budget had been set, that it was an open-ended project, and he had kept the commissioners notified of all major expenditures.

Altman stressed later that he wasn't so much concerned with the amount being spent, that he knew Sanders had notified the commission at regular intervals about the expenses at the project. He said he was primarily concerned with the fact the commissioners hadn't been notified by Sanders that general funds were being used when they were under the impression recreational reserve funds were being used.

"During the dedication ceremonies," Altman said, "I stood out there and said we hadn't used a dime of general fund money."

- That the commission had decided to raise the city's occupational license rates partially on Sanders' information that the last rate increase had been, "in the early fifties," when the last rate increase had actually been in 1974.

Bill Mallory to return to city?

By Dean Jones

BELLE GLADE—The city commission will interview former City Manager William Mallory III during a workshop Monday night as a prospect to resume his old duties and take the place of Robert Sanders, who resigned from his position here on Sept. 8 to take the city manager's job in Key West.

The commissioners are still accepting applications for the city manager's job here but voted, 4-1, with Commissioner Dorothy Walker strenuously objecting, to talk to Mallory about filling the position.

The interview came up in the final moments of the meeting when Commissioner Tom Altman suggested it, saying he had had a telephone conversation with Mallory and asked him if he would consider returning.

Mallory is currently operating a consulting service in Aberdeen, Miss. Altman said there may be a problem getting the former manager to return to Belle Glade immediately because of current contracts but that something may be worked out.

"The opportunity to get someone of his caliber is rare," Altman told the other commissioners. "I think it would be worthwhile to ask him to come down and talk to him."

Miss Walker said she would be opposed to talking to Mallory until after the deadline has passed to accept applications for the city manager's position because it might be interpreted as showing favoritism, "and we could be putting ourselves in jeopardy."

"I would like to review the other applicants before singling out Mr. Mallory for an interview," she said.

Altman argued that the commissioners wouldn't necessarily commit itself by the interview and added that there is nothing legally or morally wrong with talking to him or even with hiring someone for the job immediately without reviewing the other applicants.

He said he thought the talk would be beneficial both because it would give the commissioners a chance to find out under what conditions Mallory would consider returning and because it would give the new commissioners a chance to meet him.

Commissioner Claude Tindall said he wouldn't mind talking to Mallory. "We still have to make a selection," he said, "and it behooves us to get the best person for the job."

Mayor Ralph Kirk said he saw nothing wrong with talking to Mallory, adding he thought Mallory had been a good manager when he was here.

Miss Walker said she agreed the city should hire the best person for the job, "but I would like to wait until the deadline has passed so there's no stigma attached."

"I don't care," Commissioner Randy Davidson said, "I want to talk to him and I'd like to do it now."

Miss Walker asked Kirk if the other commissioners would consider delaying a decision until City Attorney John Baker could be consulted, no mention of a specific date had been made at that time.

Altman said he had a problem with a delay because he had hoped the commission could talk to Mallory during an already-scheduled workshop Monday. He noted that Mayor Kirk will be leaving the commission at the end of the workshop and he wanted the benefit of his advice.

Airport unsafe?

BELLE GLADE—City commissioners were told Monday night that the city's airport is unsafe and unless something is done, someone is going to get hurt landing or taking off in the holey east-west runway.

The commissioners authorized Public Works Director Ron Sigmon to meet with a group of pilots who were at the commission meeting and see what can be done.

Billy Cowart said he felt that if the city could put down a rock runway 45 feet wide by half a mile long, they wouldn't have to worry about it for some time.

Signon said the city has the rock but asked Cowart and Clay Speas if the pilots could help with the transportation, saying the city only has five 5-yard dumptrucks to haul the estimated 3,500 yards of rock required for the job.

Speas said the situation at the airport has gotten so bad many pilots refuse to land their airplanes there. He said he knows of at least two jet three times around with wide landing gear have bent their propellers when their nose gear went into holes.

Speas also said there are two humps at the east end of the runway, "and if you aren't airborne by the time you get to the humps, you have to abort. There's no way you can take off after that."

Pahokee mulling budget

PAHOKEE—Randy Mills, executive director of the Pahokee Housing Authority and Head Maxwell, chairman of the PHA Commission talked the Pahokee City Council into another budget meeting Tuesday night when Mills and Maxwell presented to the Council a $10,000 error in the Water department budget that turned out to be a typographical error.

Council President Billy McKinstry agreed along with the mayor and the Council to adjourn Tuesday's meeting and meet Wednesday to iron out the figure discrepancies Mills and Maxwell claimed to have found in the City of Pahokee's proposed budget for the new fiscal year beginning Oct. 1.

Citing the Federal Freedom of Information Act and Florida's Public Record Act, the PHA board of commissioners asked the Council for copies of the 1981 city budget and fiscal records covering the past years as the last meeting on Sept. 9.

Mills said the PHA received the information Monday and only had time to search through the figures for the water department, but was certain other discrepancies in the budget figures would be found in other departments.

PHA became interested in Pahokee's budget when the city proposed water rate increases and cutbacks to once-a-week garbage collection.

McKinstry reiterated his message at the Sept. 9 meeting to Mills and Maxwell that the Council could not count on money it didn't have nor base the budget on state and federal revenue that was not yet passed.

Although Mills said that Dan Mice has told him Pahokee would receive Revenue sharing funds, McKinstry said the Council had not received any written confirmation.

In another matter based on whether Pahokee receives Revenue sharing funds, the Council told Ms. Barbara Spencer, director of Rural Health, Inc., it could not act on its request to donate $4,000 to the organization before the Council was sure of its Revenue Sharing allocation.

David Bewak from the West Beach Health and Rehabilitation Service office told the Council the funds would be used as matching funds to the funding of 11 family home day care centers.

Bewak said Rural Health, Inc., would receive approximately $91,000 in federal and state funds to continue to day care project in Pahokee for working mothers.

A proposal from Dr. Charles J. Ganin from Value Management Consultant firm of Homestead was put off until the workshop session.

Dr. Ganin and his firm proposes to the Council to develop a two plan in which the firm would develop an organizational chart, salary guidelines meet with the council to study and implement their findings at a cost of $18,000, over a two year period.

Councilman George Rashley said he did not need to wait to the workshop session instead said no to the idea outright.

"City cens us survey is on

BELLE GLADE—Plans for the city to perform its own partial census firmed up Monday night when the city commission approved the concept of having a planning firm do a survey and explore the possibility of having the survey paid for from Community Development funds.

Adley and Associates representative Bill Grissom was given the go-ahead after he told the commissioners he believed the survey could be performed at a cost of no more than $4,500 plus the costs of paying the people making the count.

Grissom said he wasn't sure what the cost would be for the surveyors, or even exactly how many sections of the city should be recounted and he made no guarantee the survey results would dispute the findings by the Bureau of the Census.

He said he felt the survey would dispute the official census, however, and said he wanted to be sure the survey would be performed in a manner which the census bureau would accept.

He said there are four basic areas which need to be surveyed: the midtown area, the southeast section of town and either side of North Main Street.

He said there are approximately 3,700 housing units in town which he believes have been assigned a vacancy rate by the census bureau that is too high.

City Planner Joe Fay said the most recent figures indicate a vacancy rate of 15.4 per cent for the city.

Grissom said the survey would have to be completed by

Nov. 1 if the figures would be accepted by the census bureau. After that, he said, the influx of farmworkers would probably make the survey unacceptable.

Answering a question by Commissioner Tom Altman, Community Development Director Renae Harvin said he believed it is possible to fund the survey through Community Development funds, if some adjustments are made, because the census results have a bearing on several CD-related areas of endeavor.

Opinion

CRACKER CRUMBS

BY DEAN JONES

I'm beginning to wonder if I wasn't right way back when I was a kid and firmly believed Superman, Batman, Thunder and Captain America were for real.

One thing about it they sure weren't any more believable than another character I ran into (not literally, thank God) called Carlos.

Carlos is a lovable little character whose acquaintance I first made in a book by Robert Ludlum, called The Bourne Identity. As with all of Ludlum's other books, I liked The Bourne Identity because it fits loosely in the genre of spy and international intrigue.

I guess I'm like a lot of people who read a lot because spy novels are great escape hatches from the normal humdrum life most of us live. usually provide danger, romance and what have you but only vicariously.

It's sort like watching those stunts on television who do things like catch bullets in their mouths or jump over cars speeding towards them at 110 miles an hour or volunteer to let themselves be handcuffed, chained and hung up like cold meat from a burning rope over a pool full of blue sharks.

There isn't so very I'm gonna do something like that. My papa didn't raise that kind of fool anyway. But it is sorta fun to watch just to see if, just this once, the guy's gonna have his fool head blown off...or get creamed by a car whose speed he misjudged...or watch several sharks argue over who's gonna get the final morsel.

At any rate, Carlos was the bad guy in The Bourne Identity. Bad guy? This guy was the black hat of all time.

Just to give an idea of how bad this dude was, his real name was Edith Ramirez Sanchez. Carlos was just a code name. His Venezuelan father gave him the Russian first name in honor of another Edith, better known to the world as Lenin...and the father of the Communist Russia didn't have anything on his nameless.

At the age of 17, Carlos, according to Ludlum, was trained in guerrilla warfare in one of Fidel Castro's camps. That was before he was enrolled in Lumbumbia University in Moscow to be trained by the KGB in the usual run-of-the-mill school subjects like terrorism, espionage and sabotage.

He was expelled from Lumbumbia, believe it or not, because he was too nasty for the KGB, but not before he made friends with a Palestinian commando named Mohammed Boudia.

In 1970, he fought with other Palestinian terrorists in Jordan against King Hussein.

In 1972, Carlos helped organize the massacre of Israeli athletes at the Olympic games in Munich, as well as the Japanese Red Army's massacre of a number of Jews at Tel Aviv's Lod Airport.

He must have been pretty successful because in 1973, according to Ludlum, Carlos had taken over Palestinian terrorist operations in Europe as head of a Libyan-financed group called the Rejection Front.

Continuing his education, Carlos' master's thesis could be said to be supervising the Red Army's takeover of the French embassy in the Hague. He received the cooperation of the Baader-Meinhof gang in West Germany in this fun little caper. The gang stole from a U.S. Army depot in Germany.

That was all background for The Bourne Identity, which the reader gets filled in on during the course of the book, which portrays Carlos at the time of the book as a master assassin using an army of old men and working out of Paris as a free-lance murderer, working for anyone with the cash.

Quite a guy, huh? Sorta combines all the more prominent qualities of Billy the Kid, Caligula, Jack the Ripper and Professor Moriarty. Real nice guy if you could forget his tendency toward Mayhem and murder...but totally unbelievable, right? Ludlum overcame his hand on this one because Carlos is so far out, no one like him could possibly exist, right?

Wrong.

The second time I ran into Carlos (again, not literally, Thank God!) was this week in another form of literature, read regularly, called the morning paper...in Jack Anderson's column.

Turns out that Carlos is, to was, real. He was real in every respect...but, doing everything Ludlum said he did with the possible exception of becoming a free-lance.

Anderson even said nobod knows for sure whether Carlo is alive or dead...that he may have been killed in a purge of Palestinians in Iraq a couple years ago although some people hold he's alive and well in Libya.

Still, no one knows for sure

Now that's imagination in action

BELLE GLADE- A course designed to teach businessmen how to use their imagination to create new business and reinforce business they already have is being offered over the next eight weeks at Palm Beach Junior College-Glades.

Teaching the course will be Ron Simmons, the former national marketing director for a chain of 58 shopping centers who has designed traffic building promotions and successful advertising campaigns for more than 3,000 businesses in ten states.

Imagination in Action, according to the course outline, "is more than just a study of advertising, sales promotion and publicity methods. (B) show participants how to unlock and use imaginative techniques in everyday business situations to realize immediate gains in customer traffic and sales volumes."

The eight two-hour classes meet at 7 p.m. each Monday, Sept. 29-Nov. 17. Applications are urged to register in advance at the Registrar's Office on the Glades Campus. The fee is $18 and further information may be obtained at 996-9055.

Glades voters

Whether it was because the city and primary elections reinforced each other or residents of Belle Glade take their duties as citizens more seriously than the public at large, they earned a few bragging rights Sept. 9.

According to figures made available this week by Palm Beach County Supervisor of Elections Jackie Winchester, 38.8 per cent of the voters in the city's four precincts turned out to cast their ballots in the first primary, compared to a county-wide 26 per cent and a Glades area-wide 29 per cent turnout.

Precinct 37, as a matter of fact, had the third highest turnout in the county with a 44 percent vote. The only two precincts with higher percentages were in Century Village, where the retirees have a reputation of high turnouts. Precinct 37 is the eastern section of Belle Glade.

The only possible way a republic can be made to operate efficiently is when the government is representing the people and that's impossible when the people don't express their will at the polls.

Not voting is worse than owning part of a business without voting on corporate affairs. It's more like giving a total stranger from off the street your life savings and telling him to do what he wants with it.

He might invest it, if you're incredibly lucky, and return the dividends to you without your even asking for them. More likely, he'll invest the money and keep the dividends and your savings...and that's if he's smart enough to invest it in the first place. He might put your money in his hip pocket and sit on it or just squander it.

But that's only money. Can anyone say money is more important than your life and what's going to be done with it?

Think about it and then, if you were among those who turned out to vote on Sept. 9, give yourself a pat on the back. Win, lose or draw, you at least made your own decision on what you were going to do with your savings.

Letter to the editor

Dear Editor:

I don't know how in the name of common sense the county commission thinks they can keep squeezing the property owners for more money when most of us have to really struggle to pay our taxes as they are now.

It may help homeowners to give them an increased homestead exemption even though our sorry State Legislature and our bumbling Governor have found a way to really put the bite on property owners. The County commission and the other taxing authorities are creating a very dangerous situation for people who rent a place to live.

Much of the money collected from property taxes benefits low income people either directly or indirectly. When taxes are increased rents will have to be raised in order to pay the taxes.

I cannot speak for all rental property owners but as for myself, I charge only enough to rent to pay the mortgage payment, the taxes, the insurance, maintenance and make a very small profit.

Most people who find it necessary to rent a place to live don't make much money and they certainly can't afford a rent increase. You are hurting in a large way the very people you are trying to help in a small way.

I wish you all would wake up and smell the coffee, because some day these taxing authorities may find that they are luxuries we can no longer afford.

Sincerely,
N.D. Gingery

CHIROPRACTIC TODAY

SCIATICA

You may be sure that anyone who has suffered through a full blown case of sciatica will agree that the pain is one of life's most agonizing experiences. Because there is no other pain quite like it, it is difficult to make a comparison, but the worst toothache imaginable is of about the same magnitude as the devastating pain of acute sciatica.

Sciatica is a frequently misunderstood and underrated disease condition. It is often mistakenly called sciatic rheumatism. Some refer to it as lumbago, while others think of sciatica as being any low back or hip pain.

Actually, sciatica is a painful inflammation of the sciatic nerve which supplies the tissues of the thigh, lower leg, and foot. It is most often caused by a pinching of one or more spinal nerve roots between spinal bones (vertebrae) of the lower back.

The pain of sciatica is so excruciating that sufferers cannot even find relief by confining themselves to bed. Pains in the low back and the backs of the legs result from inflammation of the large sciatic nerve. This in turn is due to spinal imbalance which causes a patient to lean to one side.

Correction of the cause of the spinal imbalance results in relief of the condition, which can be accomplished through chiropractic treatment. Phone today.

A link to Black Americans' cultural past

Religious Music

By Alma Henry

We didn't have writers, but we did have music, and the music was the vehicle to carry the remnants of Black history. The true history of Blacks is not in our history books, but in the music. The only Blacks I ever heard of in school were Booker T. Washington and George Washington Carver. It was like nobody else existed. We had no folk heroes in books, ever. Our history is all locked in the music and is passed down in its different forms through that music."

Quincy Jones

Communication through culture has always kept Black Americans together. Today, this culture has become a significant part of our nation's heritage and is helping to bring all Americans closer.

The main thrust behind that all important communication through culture has been Black religious music, that started on the shores of Africa and ended up in the cotton and tobacco fields of Southern plantations.

That source of culture which ended up on the Southern plantations was songs that told of a brighter tomorrow... songs that caused chills in the throat... a tremble in the heart... and a soothing of the aching pains in the back.

Down through the years, that source of culture (Black religious music and folk songs) have remained as an ever present bond for the Black Community. When all else seemed new and foreign Black culture is referred to as the Barry Manilow sound and the Bo Diddley look.

With the advent of television and radio, top twenty hits and that, highly publicized advertising campaigns for yesterday's rock and roll music and today's disco music, Black religious music has not gained the public acceptance as some of the other musical art forms.

Black religious music basically has been confined to the Black church, lesser known commercial radio stations and public television.

It's hard tuning in on Sunday mornings and finding a program featuring a Black church Sunday morning worship services, thus the vast majority of Americans have no idea what Black religious music is all about or what it sounds like.

In Belle Glade a year ago, The Progressive Missionary and Educational Baptist Convention of Florida with over 60,000 members held their annual Sunday School convention here.

The St. John First Baptist Church, the host church, and several local Baptist churches representing congregations from Clewiston, Pahokee, as well as Belle Glade organized a mass community choir to perform for the delegates attending the convocation here in the Glades.

The concert, a mixture of all types of religious music from hymns to anthems, to gospel, was met with such success, persons involved with the choir asked that it be continued.

Kevin Boynton, director of the Pahokee High School choir department and Minister of Music at the New Bethel Missionary Baptist Church in Belle Glade, was approached about being the group's director.

"Last year we tried to re-organize the group, but because of many conflicting schedules we could not revive the interest in the choir," said Boynton.

"This year Glades Central Community School is offering classes at Pahokee High School and Glades Central in hopes of introducing to the Glades community a taste of what Black religious music is all about," he added.

Although Boynton was approached by Blacks to re-organize the Mass Community Choir, he said the course offered by Glades Central Community School was not started to study and sing only Black religious music, but a variety of music.

"However, since only Black students have showed up to the two classes, the classes are moving into the direction of singing only Black religious music," Boynton said.

A graduate of Hampton Institute in Virginia with a Bachelor of Science degree in music education Boynton said he is considered to be a late starter in the field of music.

A member of the former all black Roosevelt High School in West Palm Beach band, Boynton said he was a member of the school band from eighth to twelfth grade.

The early year's of integration in Palm Beach County Schools, Boynton said he transferred to Twin Lake High School where he continued to play the clarinet and oboe for the band.

Unlike some black students who were members of the band and chorus at all black schools forced to attend predominantly all white schools in the early 70's, the adjustment to white music did not come all too easy. Many of them gave up on the band and chorus but Boynton made the adjustment and went on to major in music in college.

Presently working on his Master's of Music in Education at the University of Florida, Boynton said he did not start taking piano lessons until he was fifteen.

As a child Boynton said he always wanted to play a piano, but it was not until a friend of his mother gave the family a piano she received from a friend and had no use for.

"She (the friend of my mother) told me if I picked up the piano I could have it. I did, and my brother Kyle and I have been playing the piano ever since," Boynton said.

Most serious music students often come from a family of musicians, Boynton said he did not come from a musical inclined family.

"My mother sang in the choir, but that was the extent of her musical abilities," he said.

When asked about his hobbies, Boynton said he never says music, although he wakes up in the morning to music, and goes to bed listening to music.

"Music takes up all of my time, but I try to select at least one day out of the week that I do nothing pertaining to music," he said.

Although he has respect for all types of music, Boynton says Black Gospel music is his favorite.

With only two classes behind them, Boynton says with a smile, the Community Choir can be one of the best mass

KEVIN BOYNTON, director of the Pahokee High School Chorus department loves gospel music and because of his interest has organized a Mass Community Choir to present to the Glades community one of Black America's oldest art forms.

Rally behind Black college day

Tony Brown, host of Tony Brown's Journal, a public television program, now syndicated by the networks has issued an urgent call across America for responses to the growing trend of closing black colleges and turning others into major white institutions. As a result Brown has planned and is presently promoting Black College Day '80 Festival.

Thousands of participants plan to take part in a march and rally to be presented in Washington, D.C. on Monday, Sept. 29. Brown is anticipating about a half-million persons to gather there. The idea of the movement is to stop those who believe that black colleges are inferior and unnecessary. One of the major destructive forces is said to be the Office of Civil Rights of the Department of Education which seems to be innocently imposing desegregation plans that neither improve educational opportunities for black students nor preserve these historical institutions.

The march is scheduled to be a coalition of every fraternity, sorority, church, civic, student, business, social, athletic, labor, political and educational group in Black America.

One aspect of the rally is expected to be very political: President Carter, and Presidential candidates Ronald Reagan and John Anderson have been invited to address the rally, and assuming this is accomplished, Blacks are expected to learn where President Carter and the other Presidential hopefuls stand with regard to the issue.

The main concern of Blacks is not only preservation on one of the most important and cultural institutions available to them; it also includes a concern for unfair and illogical ideas of many majority whites who too often seem to want to declare the Black culture and experience inferior and useless while the white institutions are declared fit and superior. Blacks have come to realize they have proportionately as many scholars, highly intelligent professors and persons with leadership potentials as any other group; the masses of Blacks do not wish to yield their opportunities to build on their practically lost culture and very young educational expertise.

If left alone and supported as other institutions have been for at least 200 years, it is likely that the black colleges and universities can and will reach a developmental level that would be second to none.

The merging of nearby white and black institutions into one institution would be fine and accepted - if - the black schools were to be treated fairly. Experience has taught Blacks this will not happen.

That's HOW I SEE IT. HOW ABOUT YOU?

Central High School Monday night to sing some of the groups gospel favorites.

MR. AND MRS. JACK ALVIN GLASS

Glass and Wilkinson weds

PAHOKEE—Theresa Gayle Wilkinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold B. Wilkinson of Pahokee, was joined in marriage recently to Jack Alvin Glass, son of Thomas Alvin Glass of Belle Glade and Mrs. Manuel Brilo of West Palm Beach on Aug. 23.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Ralph Banks at the Holy Nativity Episcopal Church in Pahokee. The organist was Mrs. Charles Collier.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of tulle with rows of lace. The dress had an empire waistline with heart shaped neckline and short cap sleeves trimmed in lace. The train was short and her veil was tulle trimmed in lace and seed pearls. Her headpiece was a circle of lily-of-the-valley.

She carried a cascade-style bouquet of pink roses, pink tea roses, stephanotis, lily-of-the-valley interspersed with white ribbon.

Sister of the bride, Mrs. Robert G. Kubina of Miami was the matron of honor. Miss Joanne Wilkinson of Atlanta, Ga., sister of the bride was the maid of honor. They wore gowns of Belle Glade with empire waistline, ruffled collar and short ruffled sleeves. Their headpieces were adorned with violets and miniature flowers.

The flower girl was Lorie Glass, sister of the groom. Keith Dunaway of Belle Glade was the best man and the groomsmen were Chuck Holley, head usher, Bobby Holley and John Hatten, Jr. The ring bearer was a nephew of the bride, Danny Kubina of Miami.

Weeks-Williams exchange vows

BELLE GLADE — Miss Delores Williams and Melvin Richard Weeks were united in marriage Saturday, Aug. 23 at Bethesda By The Sea Church in Palm Beach. The Rev. Colley Bell performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin A. Williams of Belle Glade. Mr. and Mrs. Murray O. Weeks are the parents of the groom.

A pipe organ concert of nuptial music filled the sanctuary as guests were seated.

The traditional wedding march accompanied the bride party as they walked the aisle. Miss Williams, given in marriage by her father, wore a white quince gown in a style reminiscent of the 1940's era. The custom designed dress had a high neckline with a shirred rolled collar and long fitted sleeves. A soft cross drape in the bodice and skirt fell from a waist and shoulder applique of lace incrustated with seed pearls. The skirt extended into a chapel train. Her pill box hat, decorated in lace and pearls, held a tiny bow veil.

She carried a bouquet designed in high style cascade of rubrum lilies, baby's breath, Boston fern and tri-color drooping margallata foliage. The matron of honor was Linda Little, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Penny Smith, Carol Mollenberg, Estelita Portelo Rivero, and Gail Tumes.

Each attendant wore identical mauve chiffon dresses featuring an off shoulder overlay and contrasting pink velvet belt. They carried crescent shaped bouquets in shades of pink flowers outlined in fuscia satin tubing and ribbons. Their hairpieces were silk flowered combs.

Sherry Little, niece of the bride threw pink rose petals from a white basket. Brian Richards, of West Palm Beach served as best man. Groomsmen were Carlos Arruzo, Enrique Tomas III, Michael Dobrow and Edward Hamilton, Jr. The ringbearer was Carlos Portelo. The men were attired in black formal suits. Their boutonniere's were pink roses.

Mrs. Williams, mother of the bride, wore a formal dress of burgundy silk crepe with pleated skirt and long chiffon sleeves. Her corsage was a white cattleya orchid.

The groom's mother, Mrs. Weeks, wore a floor length gown of white silk chiffon screen printed with bouquets of spring flowers. Her corsage was pink roses and babies breath.

Immediately following the ceremony a candlelight buffet reception was held at the Breakers Hotel Beach Club.

The serving tables were draped with pink and lace cloths and decorated with double tiered candelabra holding pink floral arrangements.

The hors d'oeuvre table was centered with a lighted ice carving of kissing doves flanked on either side by silver candelabra arrangements of pink flowers. Fall white vases of pink gladioli surrounded the indoor oval pool. The black wrought iron pool railings were draped with swags of fern held by satin bows.

Guests were served portions from a tiered wedding cake. Each tier was topped with pink flowers. The six piece arches of Betsy Hartman provided music for dancing.

Following a honeymoon trip to Captiva Island the couple will reside at 2809 Waterside Drive in Lake Worth.

A LONG WAY

They've come a long way. They were married in this same church fifty years ago, when she was just twenty and he was twenty-two. Youth seemed eternal. Life promised a succession of sunny days.

But it wasn't to go on that way forever. Their first child died at birth. Then financial troubles, a business failure, the loss of a home when they couldn't meet the mortgage payments. Sometimes it seemed as if the clouds outweighed the sunshine.

But there were good times, too. Times of joy and laughter, success, wonderful children, wonderful grandchildren. Through it all, their faith and love for each other never faltered.

Throughout our own life, can we all say as much?

KEEPING THE FAITH

BY THE REV. JOE ED MCGAHEY
Community United Methodist Church

Then Jesus said to His disciples, "If anyone wishes to come after Me, let him deny himself and take up his cross, and follow Me." Matt. 16:24 NASB.

His name is Victor and he lives in Russia. Victor grew up under atheistic Communism and was the leader of an atheistic club of youth as a young person. Then several years ago he accepted the Christian faith and became a deeply committed young Christian.

In the Spring of 1978, Living Sound (an international missionary singing group) went to Russia. Victor became their interpreter. As Living Sound made this and three more trips into Russia, Victor helped them minister to the people of Russia, even though the KGB was seeking to arrest him.

The leaders of Living Sound, knowing the great danger he was putting himself in, warned him of his danger which he readily recognized. But, he simply replied, "Don't worry about my safety, I crossed that bridge many years ago. I went on to say when he became a Christian, he died that Christ Jesus might live in and through him. In the words of Paul, he said, "For me to live is Christ, and to die is gain." (Phil. 1:21 NASB)

On March 29, 1980, Victor disappeared. Several weeks later it was learned that he was a prisoner of the KGB. His last trip was to have been conducted last June, before the Olympics. However, it has been put off. At present he is awaiting trial and permitted one visitor a month. The latest word came from Sept. 4 visit that he is okay, in good spirits and that his greatest concern is the continued ministry of Living Sound when they return to Russia in the fall.

Now, I'm writing this for two reasons. The first is to enlist your prayers for not only Victor, but for thousands like him who are being persecuted right now for the Christian faith. Surely you will want to pray for those who do not have the freedom to worship that we so easily take for granted.

The second thing that needs to be said is, Jesus did not invite us to follow Him with no challenges. If you are looking for an easy way of life, Christianity is not for you. But if you are looking for a challenge that is greater than you are, then you can find such a challenge in Christ Jesus.

He was on His way to Jerusalem when He spoke the words of our text, "If anyone wishes to come after Me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow Me."

In Jerusalem, Jesus carried his Cross to Calvary and died on it for you and me. If we are going to follow Him and selfish ambitions must die to the will of God being lived out in our lives.

He must become the number one priority of our lives. In our great nation with its wonderful freedom, we have tended to grow soft in terms of commitment. All too many of us have as our first priority doing what we want to, having what we call "the good life," meaning luxury and pleasure, with God getting the last leftovers.

This is not the call of God. Therefore, we need to be in prayer and be willing to really give our lives over to Jesus Christ for His use.

East Lake Open House Monday

PAHOKEE—East Lake Middle School's Open House has been scheduled for Monday, Sept. 28 at 7:30 in the school's cafeteria.

East Lake Middle School Advisory Committee will be served.

Music

choirs in the state.

Thus far, members of the choir are not confined to just Baptist, but a wide spectrum of religious denominations.

Boynton said Pahokee has a large number of persons participating in the choir so far, and we would like to encourage more from Belle Glade and South Bay to take part in this endeavor.

Presently the choir is meeting in Belle Glade and Pahokee on a rotating basis.

"The past week we met in Belle Glade and only a few turned out," he added. Next week the class will meet in Pahokee and on Oct. 8 will meet back at Glades Central Chorus room once again.

Boynton said if the responses to the choir has not picked up in Belle Glade by the next meeting, the classes will be scheduled only in Pahokee.

The class is open to high school students and adults, regardless of race, religion, creed or nationality.

Boynton said the first concert is planned for the first of next year, and although Black Gospel music is the main Community Choir focus point at the present, the choir's intentions are not to align any form of religious music, but Black Gospel Music is the only vehicle presently available to the Glades to carry the remnants of Black history and bridge the gap between all citizens.

A waste of a taxpayers dollars. It seems like the Palm Beach County Commission is now meeting in Pahokee. Faced with an airtight tight budget for the next fiscal year, Pahokee City Council agreed Monday night to send at least eight persons to the League of Cities Convention in Miami. The question came up how many wanted to go, not how many needed to go. Sounds familiar. Norman Gregory, a Palm Beach County Commissioner last month went to New York; the Commission approved his trip over the objection of the Commission Chairman Dennis Koehler. Of those eight that want to go, here is a friendly suggestion: do like County Commissioner Bill Bailey. If you just want to go, foot your own bill, save the taxpayer their precious dollars and the Pahokee City Council some headaches over how they are going to stretch an all ready tight budget.

A native of Wellington and a University of Florida grad, Marvin came to Belle Glade and the radio business in 1950. He and wife Charlene, a teacher at Gove Elementary School, have three children living in Indiana.

"I'm really impressed with the new Ford Escort," Smith said. "It's great with that front wheel-drive."

HELPING INSURE THE FUTURE

Boat trailers need help too!

By Lerne Radcott
We have previously dealt with outboard motors and boats. They are what get you from the dock or ramp to your fishing territory and back.

Boat trailers are what get you to the point of departure and get your rig back home again. Anything less than a boat trailer in A-1 condition is unacceptable.

Observe the roadside on a Sunday afternoon, over a stretch of highway and you will see any number of boat and trailer combinations parked with no towing vehicle attached. Burnt-out wheel bearings and flat tires appear to be the main cause of this situation. When you own a boat or more from home base this is, indeed, a very unhappy situation and one that can be prevented 99% of the time. Lack of proper maintenance is usually the cause.

A boat trailer, like any other piece of equipment, must be periodically checked out thoroughly if it is to be in good operating order.

The past several weeks I have checked 123 boat trailers at random. At marinas, boat ramps, motel and restaurant parking lots and in the drive-ways of residences. Out of this number I found 89 to be in excellent condition, 34 in fair to good condition and 15 that should stay right where they are until completely fixed or replaced entirely. Of the total of 49 in poor to fair and good condition I found 8 parked alongside the highway. Five had flat tires (preventable). Three had burnt-out wheel bearings (also preventable).

These 8 trailers present a driving hazard not only to the occupants of the towing vehicle but also to any one else using that particular stretch of highway when a breakdown occurs. There is no justification for this. Looking into the foreseeable future it is just possible that the authorities will refuse to issue a trailer license, or renew one, until a trailer has been inspected.

This would cause a loss of time and trouble and could be expensive.

The sad part of it is that those who properly maintain their equipment would be subject to this unnecessary hassle because of the few who refuse to give this vital piece of equipment the attention it requires. I mentioned this following before, but it certainly bears repeating.

A short time ago I came across a boat and trailer that had parted company with the towing vehicle. Upon coming loose, the trailer had slid across the dividing line of the highway. The reason was that upon striking a bump in the road the trailer hitch had come off the ball of the towing vehicle and the ensuing strain had snapped the safety chains. Examination of the chains showed them to be rusted and reduced in effectiveness because they had but a small amount of their original strength. Fortunately, no one was hurt, there was no visible damage to the towing vehicle and damage to the boat and trailer appeared to be minimal.

Several of the party involved did wear some rather sheepish smiles but no one appeared overly concerned. I have often wondered since whether they would have been smiling at all if the trailer had slid into the path of an oncoming vehicle. It does give one pause for thought!

To prevent this happening to you, check out the following items before you use it again. You may be glad you did.

Towing Hitch - First check for rust on the exterior or internally. Use a wire brush to remove all rust or other corrosion and lubricate thoroughly.

Check the adjustment. There is a nut for this purpose and should be adjusted so that the hitch seats the towing ball firmly without binding. It is not difficult to do and will take but a few minutes.

Properly adjusted you will find that it is much easier to attach and detach the trailer.

Winch Post - Make certain that it is securely fastened to the trailer frame. If the U-bolts and securing nuts are rusted, remove same and lubricate with a light grease. If badly deteriorated, replace. They cost a lot less than a new boat or trailer.

This may be a good time also to check the balance of the boat on the trailer. If it is not exactly to your liking move it forward, or back to obtain the desired result.

Winch - Here again, rust is usually the worst enemy. Remove the winch cable or rope and check the interior. Remove any indication of rust. Lubricate with a light oil. The gears should be free of rust and a light grease applied to ensure ease of operation.

Make certain the gear dog is not "frozen". Lightly oil or grease. If the tooth of the dog is bent or otherwise get it replaced. There is a lot of strain on this rather small item and it should always be in the best possible condition.

Winch Cable or Rope - I'm sure a good number of you have seen what can happen when this breaks. It cannot only cause serious injury (and painful) but can easily cause your boat to slide off the trailer and create no end of problems.

One gentleman of my acquaintance who, while the boat was up on the trailer which was still on the ramp, climbed into the boat to remove the drain plug. After, so doing he got into his vehicle to tow the rig up the ramp, a steep one, and that's when it happened. When the cable broke the boat slid back down into the water and immediately began to fill through the drain plug.

It almost went down before it was finally caught up with and the drain plug re-inserted. Only remove a drain plug when the boat is on a slight incline if you must remove water in this way. If that rope or cable shows any signs whatsoever of a deteriorated condition replace it immediately.

Frame - Trailers which are not galvanized are subject to rusting much more than those that are. Even the galvanized ones have a rust problem at times to a greater or lesser degree. Wire brush the affected areas until they are completely free of same.

You may want to paint over the areas and if so use a primer first. Most Marine dealers carry just what you need to stock. Simply painting over the rust won't work. Rust will continue active under the coating and in certain instances will accelerate the action.

Springs and Axles - Continually immersing the springs when ramping in or out plays havoc with the springs. They should be constantly checked out to make certain they are not losing their resiliency. If they never comes a time when it doesn't take much to snap them.

To keep springs in good condition spray them with a light oil which will add considerably to their life. Badly worn or corroded springs should be replaced. They are expensive but cheaper than replacing a whole trailer or boat.

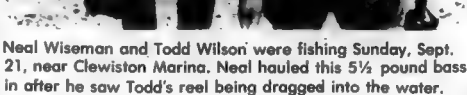

Remove the caps from the axles and replace the old grease with new. Check the bearings themselves and if "frozen" or otherwise deteriorated, replace them. There are some caps on the market which, when properly installed, considerably extend bearing life. They still have to be checked out periodically, particularly if used in salt water.

Walkway Boards - These made of wood are the most popular though many trailers have well designed walkways of metal with excellent load properties. The latter should be checked for the usual rust and treated accordingly.

Wooden boards have a habit of coming loose when they are bolted on the trailer. If in need of repair it is usually the best time saving and least expensive item to replace including the bolts and nuts.

Three - Ensure that air pressure is always that which is recommended by the manufacturer. Examine treads and sidewalls for checking and cracking. There are preservatives available to prevent or slow down this action but some users favor them and others don't. It is a matter of personal decision.

One of the better investments a boater can make is the Neal Wiseman and Todd Wilson were fishing Sunday, Sept. 21, near Clewiston Marina. Neal hauled this 5 1/2 pound bass in after he saw Todd's reel being dragged into the water.

purchase of a spare wheel and tire. He might have to lug it with him all the time but, if he ever needs it, he will bless it many times over. If you don't have one, get one.

Keel Roller Guides - This equipment takes a continual beating. Not only from the sun and other elements but from the weight of the boat resting on them. They become hard, flattened in places and make a mighty chorus of ramping in or out.

If yours are in this condition, replace them. It is the least expensive and most practical way to solve the problem. Between bad rollers and out of condition winches it is hard to say which is the most annoying. At boat ramps, X&Y, #1112 at boat ramps.

Safety Chains - They rust. They come loose from the towing vehicle and they break. Rust is an ever present problem. Another problem is that if one or both come loose from the towing vehicle they wear down quickly by being dragged along the road. And, a chain is only as strong as

When they are rusted or weakened, replace them. They are inexpensive and good insurance. It is also illegal to tow without them. Citations can be time consuming and expensive.

The last three issues have dealt with the care of your boat, motor and trailer. Items to correct almost any problem to give you some guidance. It has not been intended as a cure-all for every item of your equipment but at least should enable you to go over the significant items that the average boater is familiar with.

I guess without saying that any part of your rig that you are not sure about should be referred to a marine dealer who has trained personnel to correct almost any problem.

In this day and age, outboard motors have become so sophisticated that the average boat owner has neither the knowledge or the tools required to correct a lot of the problems that arise. Get the problem resolved while it is still a minor one. Like everything else, it isn't cheap anymore but it certainly beats the cost of a major overhaul or complete replacement. So give your equipment the attention it deserves that it will serve you better, longer.
